Dublin: WILLIAM CURRY & CO., 9, Upper Sackville-street.
London: WERTHEIM AND MACINTOSH.

"The Talk of the Road" is most amusing, and strikingly characteristic. Children turn to it with avidity, while the less ardent parent ponders the different expressions of true native feeling these conversations contain, as a pledge that those who give utterance to them will one day rise above dogmatism and oppression, and assert the moral dignity of themselves and their fellows."—Rugby Advertiser, November 5, 1852.

THE GREEK TESTAMENT;

WITH NOTES.

By CHR. WORDSWORTH, D.D., Canon of Westminster.
The Four Gospels are now ready. Price 21s.

Orders received by W. CURRY & CO.

"The above work is among the most valuable which have lately appeared in defence of Divine truth. . . . Of the Commentary, the peculiar value is this, that while exegetical and critical, it is not confined to dry exegesis, or (what is too often the case) abounding in impartial statements of conflicting opinions, without any conclusion; but it abounds in moral and spiritual criticism, calling attention to the real and internal spirit of the law and the prophets, as illustrative of the Gospel, and thus exhibiting the proper office of the theologian."—English Churchman, November 27, 1856.

"We may sum up our remarks on this important work, by saying that every page is full of recondite learning, drawn from all the stores which the Church of Christ, in its long succession, so richly furnishes. The first volume contains an immense mass of materials, which the student will receive gratefully, however much he may differ from the general views of the learned and pious editor."—Clerical Journal, December 8, 1856.

Publishing in Monthly Numbers,

The Female Missionary Intelligencer,
AND RECORD OF THE PROCEEDINGS OF THE SOCIETY FOR PROMOTING FEMALE EDUCATION IN CHINA, AFRICA, AND THE EAST.

Annual Subscription, 1s.; by post, 2s.

"A most useful publication, entitled the Female Missionary Intelligencer, edited by Miss Whately, is gradually becoming better known, and is extending an interest throughout Ireland, not only in missionary endeavours generally, but more especially on the subject of female education in the East. Clergymen accustomed to hold missionary meetings will find this little periodical most suggestive, and as the yearly subscription is only 1s., for twelve numbers of the publication, young persons in Sunday-schools might be encouraged to become subscribers."—Clerical Journal, July 22, 1856.

"A most interesting and useful periodical. . . . Containing most interesting details of the general operations of the Eastern Society. It is a pity that this cheap little publication is not more generally patronised, as it supplies trustworthy materials for missionary sermons, speeches, &c., and may be used beneficially in stirring up young people to make collections for the education and evangelizing of heathen females."—Clerical Journal (Second notice), October 8, 1856.

Scripture Record of the Life and Character of the Blessed Virgin, the Mother of Our Lord.

"Justice is done in this little manual to one who, by being raised up higher than mortal ought to be by one party, has been allowed to sink far below the demands of Scripture and of truth by another. These lectures place the matter in a proper light; and with the historical notices of the Blessed Virgin are mingled profitable reflections adapted to ourselves. The new dogma of the Immaculate Conception is ably put down—new, as an article of faith, but not new as a heresy; for Mahomed taught it in the Koran, deriving it, as the author of this volume thinks, from earlier heretics."—Clerical Journal, December 22, 1856.

Memoir of Jane Pennington, with Portrait.

Second Edition. Fcap. 8vo. Price, 2s.

"She may be looked upon as a specimen of a class—we firmly believe, a large, very important, and daily increasing one—the devout English Church-woman of the middle rank."—From the Preface.

NEW VOLUME OF

Poems by Alfred Tennyson, Poet Laureate.

"To consist of two poems, both of considerable length, and in blank verse, and the subject of each drawn from that storehouse of Arthurian romance which has already afforded such rich material to his genius in the 'Morte d'Arthur,' and 'The Lady of Shalott.' The story of one is the enchantment of Merlin, that of the other is derived from the romance of Eric or Geraint, published by Lady Charlotte Guest, in her edition of the Mabinogion."

The Commentary Wholly Biblical:

AN EXPOSITION OF THE OLD AND NEW TESTAMENT, IN THE WORDS OF SCRIPTURE. Parts 1 and 2 Ready.

"Since we noticed the first part of this work, we have been still more struck with the advantages it offers to the Biblical student and we can recommend it without any hesitation."—Clerical Journal, December 8, 1856.

BENGEL'S GNOMON.

In Preparation, to be completed in Five Volumes, 8vo.,

Price 28s. to Subscribers.

A TRANSLATION OF BENDEL'S GNOMON OF THE NEW TESTAMENT.

"Bengel's invaluable work—a work which manifests the profoundest and most intimate knowledge of Scripture, and which, if we examine it with care, will often be found to condense more matter into a line than can be extracted from pages of other writers."—Archdeacon Hare.

The translation is progressing as rapidly as is consistent with elegance and accuracy. It is hoped that two volumes may be ready towards the end of the year.

It is respectfully requested that those who wish to add so very valuable a book to their library may send in their names as speedily as possible, to

Bagster's Large Print Paragraph Bible,
IN POCKET VOLUMES.

This Edition of the Scriptures offers the following advantages:—

1st. A Paragraph arrangement of the Text.

2nd. The publication of the Books as distinct volumes, which renders them convenient for separate perusal—for use in travelling—for parochial visiting, and for the aged and enfeebled.

3rd. A very large Type, which adapts the volumes for the obscurely lighted chamber and for weakened vision.

4th. Completeness; the series includes the entire Scriptures, and will bind up into four moderate volumes, when the whole of the Books are published.

Those who feel the importance of studying the context of Scripture, and of securing the scope of each Book by repeated consecutive perusal, will not fail to recognise in the Paragraph arrangement, and in the separateness of the Books, an important advantage. The size of the type, and the lightness of the volumes, adapt them also for easy perusal under disadvantageous circumstances. Thus the visiting Clergyman may use these portable volumes without inconvenience in the dimly-lighted dwellings of the poor. The invalid will find them peculiarly acceptable. They are likewise adapted for use in travelling.

The SUPPLEMENTARY matter consists of Marginal Renderings, Introductions, Alphabetical Indexes of Subjects, and a very extensive series of Maps: there being an appropriate Map to almost every one of the Books of the Bible.

Already Published—Genesis, 2s.; Exodus, 2s.; Leviticus, 1s. 6d.; Psalms, 2s. 6d.; Matthew, 1s. 6d.; Mark, 1s. 4d.; Romans, 1s. 4d.; Corinthians, 1s. 4d.

OUR CHRISTIAN CLASSICS;

OR,

SPARE HOURS WITH THE BEST AUTHORS.

In our own country especially the Gospel has received the homage of so many gifted minds, that, if we would know the best thoughts of our greatest men, we must search for them in our Theological Literature. But that Literature is almost unknown to ordinary readers. They have not wealth to purchase nor leisure to peruse its voluminous authorship, which remains locked up in professional libraries; and publications which once shook the kingdom from end to end, and over which our godly fathers wept and wondered, are hardly known to their children so much as by name.

Although it were only as a point of good scholarship, every well-informed man would like to have some acquaintance with such a literature. But when it is remembered that in its records are preserved the memorials of an earnest faith, a spiritual elevation, and a scrupulous conscientiousness seldom seen in our living day, it may be hoped that in the resurrection of these "witnesses" and with a blessing from on high, there would come to some amongst ourselves new life and heavenly-mindedness.

Whilst, therefore, one aim of the projected series is to give a connected view of Sacred Literature in our own, and, perhaps, in other lands, its chief object is, to supply a profitable companion for the Sabbath leisure of well-ordered households, and for the occasional retirement of the meditative reader.

The specimens selected will be as lively, as diversified, and as frequently relieved by incident and personal experience as is compatible with the great end, "the use of edifying;" and they will be linked together by such historical and biographical details as are needful to introduce each group of authors, and as may serve to bring the reader acquainted with the circumstances by which they are surrounded, and the influences which they themselves exerted.

Commencing with Latimer and Ridley, and coming down through the successive periods of Baxter and Bunyan, of Watts and Doddridge, of John Newton and Richard Cecil, of Chalmers, Arnold, and McCheyne, it is hoped that in three or four portable volumes the reader will find himself master of the choicest gems of our Christian Authorship, and possessor of a Miscellany so varied in its contents and so permanent in its value, that even in going to the ends of the earth he shall feel himself constrained to carry it with him. And, whilst tastes the most dissimilar may be gratified by the constant variety, the faith of the large-minded Christian will be confirmed, and his heart will be cheered by that most delightful of all identities—union around the Cross, oneness in the Saviour.

The Work will appear in monthly numbers. Each number will contain seventy-two pages, crown 8vo., price sixpence.

It is intended that twenty-four numbers shall complete the series.
